PHUKET

Tourist Information

INTRODUCTION

PHUKET is located in the tropical zone of the west coast of southern Thailand in the Andaman Sea and connected to the mainland by Sarasin Bridge. Phuket, about the same size as Singapore, is the largest island of Thailand. This island, 50 kms long and 21 kms. at its widest point, has an area of about 570 sq. kms. including 39 small nearby islets. About 77% of the area is mountainous mostly in the south.

Phuket is divided into 3 administrative units call "Amphoe" (district) : Amphoe Muang, Amphoe Thalang and Aumphoe Kathu. About 65% of the total population are Buddhist, 27% Muslim, 5% Christian and 3% other faiths.

Before 1782 A.D., Phuket was known among ancient voyagers under various names : Jan Slan, Ujong Sylang, etc. Later on it was referred to as "Junk Ceylon" which is believed to be a corrupt form of the Malay word "Ujang Salang" The word "Ujang" means peninsula and the word "Salang" is thought to be the name of people inhabiting this area at that time. As for the word "Phuket" is believed to derive from the Malay word "Buket" meaning mountain.

Phuket was once well known in its colorful history because of its riches such as tin, natural pearls, edible birds' nest, ambergris ivory, rhinoceros horns and rubber. It was one of the main trade routes between India and China. The Portuguese, French, Dutch and English traded with Phuket while other visitors were less friendly.

Phuket now is blessed with its magnificent coves and bays and powdery, palm-fringed beaches. Sparkling island dotted with splendid beaches, sincerely hospitable people, comfortable accommodation, superb seafood, lushly forested mountains, lovely cascades and parks and delightful turn-of-the century Indo-Portuguese and Chinese influenced architecture create an enchantment perfectly suited to total relaxation.

CLIMATE

There are two seasons. The Rains Season from May through October, and the Hot Season from November through April. There are many sunny days throughout the Rains Season for showers customarily last little more than 2 or 3 hours. September is the wettest month. The best months are November through February. Year-round average temperatures range between 21°C and 34°C.

ATTRACTIONS

Phuket Town

One of the major charms of Phuket town are the ancient Sino-Portuguese style buildings scattered along Thalang Road, Deebuk Road, Yaowarat Road and Phang-nga Road. "Government House", one of the oldest public buildings, was once used as a setting in the well known movie "The Killing Fields"

Rang Hill, a low hill located to the north of Phuket town, offers a pleasant view of Phuket town and hillside sculptural tableaux comprise a Fitness Park.

Saphan Hin is where the monument built in 1969 commemorates the first metal ore-dredger used in Thailand and Captain Edward Thomas Mile, the Australian.

Phuket Butterfly Garden and Aquarium offer a number of perfect environments: the lovely butterfly garden, the underwater world of corals, etc. This is not just an exhibition for public display and education. It is also a serious academic research and study facility.

The Native Handicraft Center on Thepkrasattri Road present artisans weaving silk, manufacturing lacquerware, silverware, nielloware, jewellery, parasols, wickerwork, artificial flowers, Thai dolls, etc., and also exports products.

Island Attractions

Major beaches, temples, small islets and botanical gardens are as follows:

The pine-lined Mai Khao Beach (40 kms. from town) is the longest beach. Each year, from November through February, gigantic sea turtles struggle ashore to lay their eggs there.

Nai Yang National Park fringed by casuarina trees is an ideal place for picnics, swimming and snorkelling.

Surin Beach is the best place for the golden sunset of Phuket but not swimming due to powerful surf, treacherous undertow and steep beach slope.

Singh Cape with sets of beautiful rock formation is only 1 km. from Surin Beach. It is recommended for holiday-makers who look for a tranquil surrounding with sun, sand and sea.

Patong Beach (15 kms. from town) is by far Phuket's most developed beach and widely known among Thais and foreigners. Patong is one of the best places because of its natural beauty of white sandy beach, clear turquoise sea, fantastic underwater life and soft breezes and the availability of a wide range of man-made facilities. Here vacationers have big choice of accommodation from luxury hotels to palm cottages, a wide range of restaurants and shops, numerous places of night entertainment and all kinds of aquasport equipment.

Karon and Kata Beach (20 and 17 kms. respectively from town) are the next major beaches. Both are impressively long, largely peaceful and eminently suitable for swimming, snorkelling, sailing, windsurfing and sunbathing.

Nai Harn Beach (18 kms. from town), is the place for those who love peace and quiet, and fronts a shallow lagoon between stony headlands. Swimming, windsurfing, sailing and sunbathing are advisable here but not during the monsoon season.

Phromthep Cape marks the southernmost point of Phuket. It is the perfect place from which to view spectacular sunsets.

Rawai Beach (17 kms. from town) hosts Phuket's best known "Sea Gypsy Village" The sea-people who earn their living from diving for oyster shells, tin ore, lobsters, etc. are believed to be of Melanesian descent. Also several restaurants providing different delicious cuisines can be found in this area.

The Monument of Thao Thepkasattri and Thao Srisulthorn was built to commemorate these two heroines who saved Thalang from Burmese invaders in 1785.

Ton Sai Forest Park, a sonorous cascade in the area of Khao Phra Thaes Wildlife Park, one of the last remaining jungles in Phuket, teem with various mammals including bears, procupines, gibbons, macaques, reptiles, lizards and over 100 bird species.

Bang Pae is located in the central part of the island. The falls spill about 40 feet into a charming swimming area.

Chalong Temple enshrines the gilt statues of two revered monks : Luang Poh Cham and Luang Poh Chuang.

Phra Thong Temple is famous for a half-buried Buddha unearthed by a farmer mourning his son who died at the site.

Phra Nang Sang Temple is located in Thalang. This old monastery houses three 1,000-year-old bronze Buddha images concealed in the middle of 3 other bigger ones.

Phuket Aquarium, in the area of Cape Panwa, is open to public everyday.

Thalang Museum has an interesting collection of Phuket relics.

Small islets around Phuket such as Coral Island, Dokmai Island, Lone Island, Kaeo Phitsadan Island, etc. offer excellent snorkelling and scuba diving. Also Naka Island wiht unspoilt natural beauty and a pearl farm.

SPORTS

Apart from jogging, tennis at major hotels and golf at Surin Beach, Phuket's major sporting opportunities are found at major beaches. They include:

Windsurfing is available at all major beaches. Boards may be rented by the hour, half-day, full day or week. Tuition from expert Thai teachers is free.

Sailing is available largely at Patong and Kata beaches. Toppers and dingies are available at Patong. Catamaran Hobie Cats and Top Cats are available at Kata.

Water Skiing is available at Patong on a half-hour or hourly basis.

Deep Sea Fishing tours are available on a daily basis, making early morning departures and late afternoon returns, mostly to lesser islands to fish for red snappers, rainbow runners and other game fish.

Swimming can be enjoyed all the year round and is mostly safe. Undertows can be problematic during the Rains Season. It is best to seek the advice of local people regarding swimming conditions.

Snorkelling can be enjoyed in sheltered bays all around Phuket, and is particularly enjoyable at easily accessible reefs at Patong, Karon and Kata beaches. Fins, mask and snorkel can be rented on a daily basis from shops all over the island.

Scuba diving expeditions regularly leave Phuket for dives around offshore islands, and further afield, most particularly around the enduringly popular Phi Phi islands, some 3 hours east of Phuket, and the Similan islands, some 110 kilometres northwest of Phuket. Several dive shops concentrated in the Patong area have expatriate and English-speaking dive instructors who offer inexpensive beginners's courses. All diving equipment is available for hire.

MAJOR EVENTS & FESTIVALS

Chinese Vegetarian Festival

Each year, beginning on the first day of the ninth month of the Chinese year (usually late September or early October) Phuket islanders of Chinese ancestry commit themselves to a nine-day vegetarian diet. The regimen is undertaken in the belief that the body and spirit will be purified, that participants will gain great merit, and that the subsequent year will be trouble-free. The festival's first day is marked by a parade of white-clothed devotees and several ascetic displays, including fire-walking, ascending sharp-bladed ladders and pushing iron rods through various parts of the body.

Phuket International Marathon

July

This annual event attracts world-class runners and local competitors who compete over one of the most picturesque courses in Southeast Asia. The event comprises both a full and mini-marathon in several different classes.

Phuket King's Cup Regatta 1991

December

First held three years ago, this has become an annual event in the blue waters of the Andaman Sea off the island of Phuket, sponsored by the Phuket Yacht Club and other groups. Competitors come from Malaysia, Singapore, and other countries as well as Thailand and trophies are awarded in several different categories.

SHOPPING

Phuket's gift shops stock popular handicrafts from all over Thailand, southern batiks and local products such as hand-crafted coral and shell ornamentation.

Cultured pearls are popular purchases. For these, it is necessary to visit the Naga Pearl Island and purchase at source. A boat leaves Ao Po on the east coast every day at 10.30 AM. For 600 baht, including lunch, the visitor may see a cultured pearl demonstration, have lunch, swim or snorkel, and shop at the pearl farm's own emporium where Japanese professionals grade pearls.

DINING

Phuket's seafood is probably the best in Thailand, and is prepared in a variety of succulent styles. Standard western fare is found in major hotels and coffee shops. Thai, Chinese and Islamie food is available islandwide. Southern Thai food can be spicy hot, but local specialties such as spicy mango salads are well worth sampling. Tropical fruits abound paticularly local pincapples and coconuts.

Island specialties the visitor may enjoy include

Khanom Jeen (Thai rice noodles) caten with a curry sauce made from minced fish or shrimps, and fresh or pickled vegetables.

Mee Hokkian or Mee Hun (Amoy noodles) fried with shrimps, pork, shellfish and green cabbage.

Mee Sapam (originating in Sapan Village) which are noodles with seafood and gravy.

Ho Mok is a curried fish or seafood dish with coconut milk steamed inside a banana leaf cup.

Nam Prik Kung Siap is a hot fermented shrimp paste with sweetened crisp shrimps dip eaten with fresh and steamed vegetables.

NEIGHBOURING PROVINCES

PHANG NGA is usually visited because of its fascinating seascape and its short distance, about 2.30 hrs, from Phuket.

Everything from mangrove wood to pig-tailed macaques including primeval-looking islands and some of the caves containing prehistoric drawings evoke many moods. For example, Phang-nga Bay, recently declared a national park, is rich in natural resources. Major attractions include Panyi Isle, site of a stilted Muslim fishing village; most notably James Bond Island featured in many movies like "The Man With The Golden-Gun "or" The 007 Adventure"; Tapoo Isle or The Nail Isle; etc.

Further afield but impressive are The Similan Islands, also a national park, 110 kms. northwest of Phuket. There are nine uninhabited islands in the group, especially marvelous for devoted snorkellers and scuba divers.

KRABI is famous among both domestic and foreign tourists for its magnificent and fantastic beauty

One of its major attractions is Phi Phi Islands composing of 2 islets: "Phi Phi Don", gently undulating with many beautiful beaches and viewpoints, and "Phi Phi Le", mainly rocky with towering cliffs and birds' nest cave (The Viking Cave). With emerald crystal sea, secluded beaches and a relatively shallow sea-bed offering unique sights of coral reefs and enchanting marine life, Phi Phi is a rising star in the Andaman. It can be reached in about 1.20 hrs. by an express boat from Phuket.

Other Krabi attractions, less than 30 minutes from the provincial capital, are the beautiful Nopparat Beach and one of the world's only three such cemeteries- Susan Hoi, a 75,000,000 year-old shell cemetery where fossilized shells formed tiered concretelike slabs.
